Fact 1:

Reading can make you a better conversationalist.

Fact 2:

Neighbors will never complain you are reading too loud.

Fact 3:

Knowledge by osmosis has not yet been perfected, so you'd better read.

Fact 4:

Books have stopped bullets. Reading could save your life.

Fact 5:

Dinosaurs did not read. Look what happened to them.

Here are three fun facts about Libraries which you may not know:

1. Libraries have more cardholders than Visa.

2. Libraries have more outlets than McDonald's.

3. Libraries move more items than FedEx.

Look for Read Alouds

While you're checking out books for yourself, don't forget to pick a "read-aloud" one to share with your whole family. It can become one of the most special times of your day. If you spend 15-20 minutes reading aloud a pleasure book to them. Some all-time favorite books for family read-aloud include: James and the Giant Peach by Roald Dahl, The Chocolate Touch by Patrick Catling, The Lion, The Witch and the Wardrobe by C. S. Lewis, Misty of Chincoteague by Marguerite Henry, and Charlottes' Web by E.B. White. If you have never read aloud we have a book called How to Read a Story which will give you tips on how to become a master at it! Ask our librarians for other suggestions.

It's never too early to start with books!

Books are wonderful gifts for your "little ones" for any time of the year. It is never too early to start your child on the path to becoming a reader. Babies and toddlers need sturdy, "chunky" books that they can easily hold. These "board books" can be chewed on as well as held and read. Look for bold, colorful illustrations or photographs with simple or no text. Select books that contain familiar objects, animals or other babies. Also, look for books that repeat, rhyme or have rhythm.

Preschoolers enjoy books with large colorful illustrations as well as small detailed drawings. Look for books that invite interaction like I Spy, counting, ABC's, or wordless books.

Grades K to 2 also enjoy picture books. Make sure to include fantasy and fairytale books. Animal stories and poetry which feature rhyme and repetition are also fun. Don't forget the "Easy Readers" and the beginning chapter books (like Magic Tree House) as their reading skills are growing.

Grades 3 to 5- Take cues from your child's interests, but don't forget about nonfiction. Guide them toward fiction books they can emotionally identify with or those with humorous or absurd pictures. Children this age often love "series" books from one author which focus on a special character.
